

PITCHING INTO BLAINE

Charges About "Empty Honors" Preferred by the N. Y. Herald.

Blaine's Denial and Demand for the Name of the Author of the Story—Minnesota Democracy—Political Notes.

New York, May 31.—The Herald (which supports Arthur) has a special from Washington, saying:

"To the surprise and disgust of his ardent advocates, Mr. Blaine has frankly declared, on the eve of the assembling of the convention, that he has no desire for an empty honor, and he is reported as saying that in his opinion, the Republican nominee, whoever he may be, cannot possibly be elected this year. He points to the uncertainty of our financial market as certain to cause a political revolution, and whether from apathy on the part of the mass of the Republican voters, or the phenomenal popularity of the expected nominee of the Democratic convention (Tilden) the result will be the same."

The Herald, in a double loaded editorial, also says that Mr. Blaine has boldly confessed his resolve to ruin the Republican party since he can not rule it. It adds: "If Mr. Blaine does not instantly withdraw from the convention, his name should be hoisted out. Democrats and Republicans alike will be quick to recognize the traits of Judas."

BLAINE'S DENIAL.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Blaine, in an interview this morning with a United Press reporter, denied emphatically the truth of the statements contained in a Washington dispatch to a New York journal to the effect that Blaine has said: "Believing the Republican nominee for President, whoever he may be, will not be elected; he wants no empty honor and therefore will not accept a nomination." Blaine said the falsity of the dispatch was shown on its face, and that it is incumbent upon the journal publishing it to produce name of the gentleman who he has reported as having made the statement. He added further, that he firmly believed the nominee of the Republican Convention, whoever he may be, will certainly be elected.

Minnesota Democracy.

ST. PAUL, May 31.—At the Democratic State Convention to-day the following were chosen delegates at large: P. F. Kelly, of Ramsey County; Michael Doran, of LeSueur County; C. B. McDonald, of Stearns County, and R. A. Jones, of Olmstead County.

District delegates—First District, W. J. Whipple and B. S. Cook. Second District, John C. Wise and Henry Foster. Third District, William Campbell and George L. Baxter. Fourth District, R. A. Smith and T. W. Dinark. Fifth District, E. Hoenan and A. Guernan.

Presidential electors were also chosen. The platform declares that the depression in the industrial interests demand—First—Rigid economy, that useless offices be abolished, salaries reduced and no appropriations made except for necessities of the people and the legitimate expense of the country.

Second—That the large surplus in the Treasury is an incentive to extravagance and corruption; it should be reduced by a reduction of taxes upon the necessities of life; that the present tariff is a masterpiece of injustice; it has impoverished the many industries to subsidize the few, and degraded American commerce; it has cut down manufactures and depleted agriculture, and we demand that the customs taxation shall be for revenue.

Third—That the defenders of the Government are entitled to liberal pensions. Though instruction of delegates was not mentioned, every delegate was in favor of Tilden. After empowering the chairman to appoint a new Central Committee, the convention adjourned.

Butler as a Candidate.

New York, May 31.—The Sun, commenting on Butler, editorially says:

General Butler's chances are not very promising at Chicago. He will have supporters there and supporters of zeal and industry, but we suppose there won't be enough of them. And yet we have record our opinion that Butler would make a stronger candidate and a better President than several of the more orthodox and regular Democratic statesmen. But perhaps the convention may not take any of these old fogies after all and nobody knows. But one thing everybody may know; if Butler is beaten he will never shed a tear or whimper.

Cameron's Course.

New York, May 31.—Says the Tribune: A tremendous pressure has been brought to bear upon Don Cameron to induce him to take a hand in the great contest for the Republican Presidential nomination, but all to no purpose. His first choice is the man that is named by the Chicago Convention, at least that is the only man to whom he will publicly commit himself.

Freak of a Crazy Baker.

New York, May 31.—A well known German baker, of Paterson, named Richard Werner, created a decided sensation to-day by going around to his customers and warning them not to eat any of the bread he had served the day before as it was all poisoned. Most of the bread had already been eaten without any serious effects, but as soon as the parties heard the story, many began to feel pains in the stomach and grow pale. Then it was discovered that Werner had suddenly gone crazy. His relatives say that for the past two or three years during the time he ought to have devoted to sleep, he has pursued the study of subjects of socialism and communism and he has been considered weak-minded.

They Wanted It Cool, and They Got It. CHICAGO, May 31.—One of the arguments by the Chicagoans to induce the National Republican Committee to hold the convention in Chicago, was that delegates would find the weather deliciously cool and comfortable. The first delegates to arrive were from the East and South, where they left sweltering heat. In Chicago they found the mercury at but a few points above freezing, cheery fires in the grates and everybody wearing overcoats and heavy clothing. The sudden change has given rise to numerous jokes at the expense of the linen duster brigade, and one colored delegate from Arkansas is lying seriously ill at the Palmer House.
